

Contribution Cécile Corso

Lawyer at Fiji-ra specialised in International Private Law and PhD candidate at the University of Jean Moulin Lyon 3

"Enforcement and access to justice in France since the application of the new legal framework"

This paper intends to study the mechanisms that guarantee the effective enforcement and access to justice in the new legal framework since its entry into application in France in June, 18th, 2011 (2008 EU Regulation and Protocol) : the abolition of exequatur, the cooperation between French Central Authority of the foreign central authorities and the access to free legal aid for children.

Language: French.

Literature:

"The recovery of child support", Bruylant (under publication), 2012, "adoptability of children within the framework of kafala" (E. Massalve et C. Corso), Actualités Juridiques Familles, 2010, "Kafala and law proposal of 2010" (E. Massalve and C. Corso) Actualités Juridiques Familles, 2011.